Happy Holidays!

Another year wiser. Another year more experienced. Hopefully, another year happier. Yeah! 😊

Let's review the good stuff. Apart from work, and writing new stories (more news to come in 2024), there is the wonderful time spent with family, friends, kids, and pets.

Well, if I dare to post pictures with the kids, without their written consent, OMG! I am taking a great risk to be unfriended on FB, and you know, I can't do that...

On the bright side, there is one family member, who would not mind it because she loves attention. Here are some relatable moments from Myla:

Myla napping on the job site (pretending to guard the door with closed eyes) 🐾

Myla navigating me to the right area (preferably, densely populated with cats) 🐾

Sometimes the most ordinary-looking days lead us to unexpectedly profound moments and conclusions.

On one of those boring days, I stumbled into this neighborhood library, obviously created during the COVID-19 times. It invited me to take a book & did not ask to be returned. I shuffled through the meager selection and chose Dogs Never Lie About Love by the New York Times Best Selling Author, Jeffrey M. Masson.

The book is a scientifically packed reflection on the emotional world of dogs. It is overflowing with observations and examples of the author's three dogs and their interaction with other animals and people. It is not a quick read because each chapter makes you think and ponder about their reactions and what could possibly be their motives. The moral for me is that dogs do not lie about anything, unlike humans; they do not hold a grudge; they are even willing to forgive people for mistreating them. Dogs can teach us a lot of lessons on how to be genuine, sincere, and happy.

My book, Cursed Beauty, Stories of Strong Women hit two more milestones in 2023: 📖 Thank you for ALL your support! 🙏💖

"I recently read Cursed Beauty: Stories of Strong Women by Valentina Tsoneva and was blown away by the power and depth of the stories within."

The best part about Christmas is the anticipation. It's like a thriller, but a happy thriller, with a good ending.

Christmas starts with putting up the lights, decorating the tree, shopping for gifts, or should I say writing a letter to Santa with our wishes. 🧑‍🎄 📧 🌲

In the holiday spirit of shopping and SALES, HERE is Another Offer, But FREE!

How does your mailbox look like? Did you send Christmas cards from it?
